Visionary Women: Champions of Transportation

What is your biggest piece of advice for women in transportation?

My biggest piece of advice for women in transportation would be to believe in yourself, your worth and your capability. Believe despite the stereotypes that you may have to overcome. Support other women in achieving their goals and accomplishing their ambitions. If we all support and empower one another, together we could be the future of transportation.