

Ms. Dezenski is the Director of Global Strategies at the Georgia Technical Research Institute (GTRI), one of America's leading University-based technology research labs. She advises across a variety of areas including security technology applications, business strategy, and international market development.

Prior to joining GTRI, Dezenski served as a senior official at INTERPOL, where she conceived and led the organization's Global Security Initiative for the 21st Century (GSI), developing the organization's model for major public-private initiatives.

Prior to joining INTERPOL, Ms. Dezenski was Senior Vice President for Global Government affairs at Cross Match Technologies, a leader in the development of biometric technology applications.

Ms. Dezenski has worked in the Executive Branch of the United States government as both acting Assistant Secretary and Deputy Assistant Secretary at the Department of Homeland Security where she advised the Secretary and other DHS leadership on a wide range of security issues including aviation, maritime, borders, and supply chain security.

She began her career with the Transportation Division of Siemens Corporation.

She served as WTS International President from 2008-2010. Dezenski hold a Masters degree in Public Policy from Georgetown University and a Bachelors degree in International Relations from Wheaton College, Massachusetts.